

EDS AND MICROSOFT PARTNER TO PROVIDE CLIENTS WITH BUSINESS FLEXIBILITY & MODERNIZATION

EDS, an HP company, and Microsoft are developing joint solutions to deliver the next generation of applications, workplace and mobility solutions - providing you with improved efficiency, competitiveness and security.

Speed to modernization

EDS and Microsoft have benefited from a long-standing strategic relationship dating back nearly 20 years. Today, we're leveraging Microsoft's technological innovation, coupled with our 45 years experience in information technology. Our commitment is to deliver to our clients the next generation of mission-critical applications and infrastructure, including .NET, workplace—including Vista, Office, Exchange and mobility solutions.

What the EDS-Microsoft alliance means to you

EDS and Microsoft have jointly developed workplace management solutions that are driving down cost while increasing the capabilities and productivity in managing the desktop.

EDS and Microsoft have significant synergies in the field around mission-critical application modernization including the next generation of workplace, mobility and security solutions.

As a pure IT services firm, EDS manages more Microsoft software than any other organization in the world including over 3.3 million desktops and 100,000 Windows-based servers.

Microsoft's large product investment, coupled with EDS' global experience with complex, heterogeneous environments, enables clients to realize innovation, productivity and growth while relying on EDS for delivery assurance and zero outages.

EDS has eight global .NET centers of excellence with over 1,700 certified .NET developers. Furthermore, our acquisition of MphasiS brings an additional Microsoft experience to enable our Best Shore® capabilities.

EDS is a leader in integrating and managing the full spectrum of business solutions based on Microsoft enterprise software.
